London Student Achieves Dream of Studying at the World's Top Veterinary Medicine School

London, UK — At just 20 years old, Amy Joyce is making her mark in the world of animal health. Standing 5'5½" and full of determination, Amy is currently a Veterinary Medicine student at the prestigious Royal Veterinary College — ranked the number one school in the world for veterinary science.

Coming from a low-income background, Amy's journey to one of the most competitive programs in the field is a testament to resilience, ambition, and hard work. Her story serves as an inspiring example to other young people that passion and dedication can overcome even the most challenging circumstances.

Amy's love for animals and commitment to veterinary science continues to drive her toward a future where she hopes to make a global impact on animal welfare and healthcare.

Amy is sponsored by Mayfair Quarters www.mayfairquarters.com

Amy will be taking part in the Miss England semi-final on Friday October 3rd at the Grand Station Wolverhampton.
